Crowds Brave Winds To See Glen Echo

Although chill winds like those in the fall whistled through Glen Echo Park last night, between 6:30 and 7:00 persons went there for the opening. The street railway lines did a S. R. O. business, filling the park by 9 o'clock. The dancing pavilion and the new gymnasium proved to be the spots of most interest. The cooling effect of the night made dancing pleasant. The park looked fresh and new with its thousands of electric lights and its touches of paint on woodwork that had grown dull.

LONG LEGALLY DEAD, HE CLAIMS FORTUNE

Boston Man, Gone Thirty-three Years, Returns for Part of Mother's Estate.

BOSTON, May 25.—After having been declared dead by the Suffolk probate court in 1908, Major Charles C. Jones, absent from Boston for more than thirty-three years, has returned to this city to claim a part of the $20,000 estate left by his mother, Manilla Jones, who died in January, 1902.

Major Jones is a member of one of the oldest families of Boston. His father, John Coffin Jones, was one of the largest Boston ship owners. His brother, John Coffin Jones, Jr., was first United States consul to the Hawaiian Islands. In the early '80s Jones disappeared and his mother, believing him dead, did not mention him in her will. His insurance was paid the beneficiaries and his estate divided. His wife married a merchant of Duluth, Minn., where she now lives.

Major Jones, since his disappearance, has lived in the Orient. He was engaged in mining operations in the Far East. He was educated at Harvard, graduating from the Lawrence scientific school in the class of '69. He went to Australia and engaged in the pearl industry, and made and lost a fortune. Later he went to northern Australia at the time of the Kimberly rush. Since then Major Jones has traveled much in Eastern countries. During the Boxer uprising in China and in the Philippines he was a newspaper correspondent.
